Part 3. Strategies Go in the Right Direction

Aligning your mind, heart & will and letting your soul lead is the key in the New Era. Making sure you're going in the right direction, attracting the right people and relying on the right resources is the difference between success and failure. For the right direction, setting your vision, validating decisions, adapting to market changes and balancing quality and scale are the biggest problems to overcome.

How can you incorporate yourself, your joys, fulfillment and satisfaction into your strategic plans?

What is your current vision and how does it align with your core values?

What steps can you take to let your soul lead? Ex; Connect, listen, ask, accept, follow, trust, take action based on your intuitive nudges

Part 3. Strategies Go in the Right Direction

How can you use your intuition to help guide your decisions?

Will you commit to following the stars to create calm and certainty to help deal with market trends, industry trajectories and economic cycles?

How do your unique traits support you in these changing times?

How will you use your energetic rhythms, Intuitive Success Signature and your core Sun sign to enhance your resources to help with quality while scaling?

Part 3. Strategies Attract the Right People

Attracting the right people involves liking yourself enough to welcome people who have your best interests at heart. Liking yourself involves taking care of yourself by discerning who to let in and who to pass by. In business, accessing the right markets and networks for you, building a strong team and achieving work life balance.

Which type of group do you like the best - broadcasting, networking, teaching & learning, masterminds, referral-based, large, small, like-minded, rules-based, easy to navigate, frequent meetings, lots of resources, top-down support?

What gaps do you need to fill in your business? Can they be filled with systems automations & documented processes or do you need people?

Are you more apt to reach for opportunities or ask for support?

Part 3. Strategies Attract the Right People

Opportunities involve anything that grows your business, expands your influence or increases your expertise. Name 3 things you're pursuing right now.

What are your opportunity connections? Who, what, where, when?

Support is everything that eases your schedule, gives you more time or creates relief. Rank your current support - either people, systems or optimization.

What gaps would give you the most benefit to fill? Who can help you?

Part 3. Strategies Attract the Right People

Work-Life Balance

What are your favorite things to do?

Who are your favorite people? How can you spend more time with them?

How much time can you carve out for your satisfaction?

Part 3. Strategies Rely on the Right Resources

90% of CEOs fear failure, according to a 2018 Norwest Partners survey, and CEOs' other fears are top rated as well. High percentages of CEOs fear being an imposter, making a wrong decision and taking risks. Managing cash flow uncertainties and deciding where to allocate limited resources for maximum impact is constantly on your mind. Trusting yourself is the key to each of these issues.

What are the main fears you face about your business?

How can you manage your fears of failure & success?

Since leaning into your natural energies helps you more fully trust yourself, sketch out a quick plan for energetic support.

Part 3. Strategies Rely on the Right Resources

How is your cash flow? Do you have reserves, tax plans and consistently growing profits? Record your current cash in hand and your highest and lowest profits.

Have you gotten rid of your blocks in familial conditioning, ancestral lineage and soul DNA? Would you take advantage of an incredible bonus to improve your cash flow? If so, look at the bonus page in this guide.

How are you handling the current allocation of your resources? Do you have enough growth to invest in you and your business?

PRO TIP: Compounding your allocation priorities are unconscious growth limits, in the forms of societal expectations, business culture ceilings and even familial conditioning. Your top limit has invisible boundaries you can't strategize or decide your way through. Whatever you do, nothing seems to work. Overcoming these limits require soul-level potential expansion and deep foundational anchoring.
